No. 4419.—AUGUST 29, 1877.]

VIOLENT ASSAULT.
Wm. Kelly, seaman, was sent to 14 days' hard labour for violently assaulting one Peter Vandenberg, a seaman boarding at the Sailors' Home.

MISPLACED LENIENCY.
Chung Afook alias Ohun Afook, an old offender who was convicted at the July Sessions for having returned from deportation and was sentenced to six months' hard labour, but was subsequently discharged owing to the invalidity of the deportation warrant, was again brought up to-day to answer a charge of larceny. He went into the upper floor of house No. 32 Praya, and stole from a room occupied by a woman named Kwok Aye, a bed-quilt and a jacket. He was seen leaving the room with the things in his possession, and was arrested with the bed-quilt in his hand. The previous convictions against the prisoner having been proved—showing that he had been four times convicted of larceny, and deported—the prisoner was committed for trial; the defence was reserved.

ASSAULT.
John Doran and Peter Fortune, seamen boarding at the Sailors' Home, were charged with having gone into the Liverpool Arms public house, kept by one John Jester, with knives and sticks, in company with twelve others, and kicked up a row with some men belonging to the Glenscales. The complainant was struck on the back with a stick by some one, and the 2nd defendant kicked him on the breast. The case was remanded till the 30th, to enable the Police to arrest the man who used the stick.

MORE DESTRUCTION.
Piercy Leway, seaman American barkentine Namoa, was charged with desertion. The defendant said he was ill-used on board and he wanted to see the Consul. As the vessel had left, the defendant was remanded till to-morrow, pending reference to the U. S. Consul.

SUPREME COURT.

IN VICE-ADMIRALTY.

(Before the Chief Justice Sir JOHN SMALLES, with Capt. H. G. THOMSON, R.N., as Assessor.)
August 29, 1877.

A COLLISION BETWEEN TWO STEAM-LAUNCHES.

Blanche v. Cumlooy.
This was an action for the recovery of damages in respect of a collision between the Cumlooy, a steam-launch, and the Blanche, also a steam-launch, which occurred on the 13th May last in Yowmahee Bay. Damages were laid at $1,200, but the respondent expected that the claim would be considerably reduced, even if the suit should be decided against him. Mr. Haylar, Q.C., appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Kingmill, instructed by Mr. Sharp, the Queen's Counsel, for the respondent. The facts were simple. Both launches were ferry-boats plying between Hongkong and Yowmahee. On the 13th May last, the Blanche was leaving Yowmahee while the Cumlooy was going in. The Blanche was manoeuvring to get out, when she was struck by the Cumlooy on the bow. The plaintiff attributed the occurrence to the respondent's neglect, while the respondent contended it was an inevitable accident and that it was the fault of the plaintiff that the accident occurred. Mr. W. Wilson was called—I am a surveyor and an architect, and a civil engineer. I made the plan in Court of that portion of Kowloon which is situated in the pier where the launches ply to and from. The plan is a correct one. The most northern rock is 500 feet distant from the nearest point of the pier. The piers are not straight in the neighbourhood, there is an angle at this point.

By Mr. Kingmill—I made the plan yesterday morning. I took no bearings from the pier. I worked it out by trigonometry. I took no soundings. I was only instructed to make a small plan showing the position of the rock.

By the Court—I know the coast well. The position of the rock B in the small plan (that furnished by the other side) is not correctly given. The distance given there is only 300 feet. I am quite confident of my own measurement being correct. I took the measurement by bearings. I think their measurement of 120 yards must be wrong.

By Mr. Wilson—I am a master of the steam-launch Blanche, owned now by Mr. Noronha. I run her backwards and forwards between Victoria and Yowmahee as a ferry. I steer the launch, have been so employed for about ten months. We have an engineer. On the 13th May, we were coming out from Yowmahee about mid-day. I left the wharf backwards at 3 speed, and commenced to turn round after I had cleared the wharf for about 7 or 8 o'clock (about 60 or 90 feet) I began to turn as I left the wharf; the helm was ported. I then turned the helm to the starboard and the vessel's head turned towards the right. The engines were ordered to go ahead slowly. I know the launch Cumlooy, she was coming at this time from Hongkong to Yowmahee. When I slowed my engine in order to avoid the rock, I then saw the Cumlooy coming. When I got close to the rock, I put a full stop to the vessel. The rock is a visible rock. The launch on our starboard side, about 10 o'clock distant. She was coming right towards our launch amidships. There were 4 or 5 junks at anchor some distance from where we were. They were not in the way of the launches. On seeing the Cumlooy, I blew my whistle, but she continued to advance towards us at full speed. The Cumlooy did not blow her whistle but continued her course towards us amidships. We backed, and the Cumlooy ran down a sampan which was broken and the men jumped into the water to escape. On seeing this, I backed astern, and the Cumlooy struck us on the bow; if I had not backed, the Cumlooy would have struck us amidships. She came against us at great speed, the exact speed I cannot estimate; we were backing at the time. I did so because I was afraid the Cumlooy would strike us amidships near the funnel. Several Chinese junks were anchored very far off and were not in our way or in that of the Cumlooy.

By Mr. Kingmill—There are tea-boats (refreshment boats) continually anchoring off Yowmahee. The space between the rock and the last Chinese junks was quite open, except the small boat which was run down. I could not place my launch to a more westerly course because there were some tea-boats in the way. I stopped before the rock, because I saw the Cumlooy coming and thought she would pass astern. Feeling however, that she did not alter her course, I backed in order to avoid a blow amidships. I was formerly in Young Akow's service and I know he is one of the owners of the Cumlooy. I left him of my own accord. I was not discharged because I brought a launch of his into grief by running her against the wall of Yowmahee. It was the fault of the engineer who did not obey my orders and the launch was run on to a rock. I was asked to pay a portion of the damage; I refused and left. The launch once came into collision with a launch of Mr. Inglis'; it was also through the engineer, not obeying my orders.

Re-examined—It is holdish work to come out of Yowmahee Bay from the Wharf. All the launches pursue the same course as I do in leaving the wharf. By Capt. Thomson—it takes about 18 minutes to cross the harbour. Our boat draws five feet water. The wheel is before the funnel. If I had not backed, the Cumlooy would have struck us amidships. When I backed, the distance between us was too close to allow of the Cumlooy to change her course and pass us clear.

Other witnesses were then called to support the case of the plaintiff, viz. Leong Ayeow, the engineer of the Blanche, Lo Achip, a Chinese doctor, who was a passenger on board at the time of the collision, and Pang Sing-tai, a seaman.

This closed the case for the plaintiff. Mr. Kingmill then addressed the Court on behalf of the respondent, and called Capt. McMurdo to prove a chart of the Yowmahee Bay which he had prepared. He took all the bearings, and all the figures marked against each were correct.

The case was then adjourned till 10 a.m. to-morrow.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE CRITIC REVIEWED.

To the Editor of the "CHINA MAIL."

Hongkong, August 28, 1877.

SIR,—In a recent impression of your deservedly popular journal there appeared a splenetic effusion from the pen of a correspondent rejoicing in the euphonious name of "Corrosive," commenting on the abolition of corporal punishment and other severities among the Chinese in Victoria. Excellency the Governor of Hongkong. Your correspondent was also most affectionately laudatory about the removal of acting Superintendent Tomlin from the supervision of the above-named establishment, and made strenuous efforts, worthy of a better cause, to rehabilitate that individual, but I regret to say that such an attempt miscarried for want of proper and well-timed interference. Now, with regard to the flogging of the Chinese, I am bound to say that it was a master-stroke of humanity which shewed it as a thing of the past, because it was not only barbarously frequent but fiendishly cruel, and invariably administered after a manner that would make the ears of any man tingle with shame.

"Corrosive" almost makes it a point of honour on which to hang his feeble logic that because a Chinaman is only a Chinaman he richly deserves any kind of indignity, and that he ought to be thrown outside the pale of humane consideration, there to be kicked and cuffed by every truculent ruffian that passes by. But it is a matter for sincere congratulation that such a sentiment embodied as it is in his letter, is not in keeping either with the laws of God or man, or the spirit of the age; and in order to prevent its being put in practice it should be jealously watched by all right-minded persons in the Colony, lest it be a standing reproach against that humanity which good Englishmen are proud to profess, and quick to put into execution.

Unwarrantably coercive and cruel measures can never gain over the morally depraved to a just sense of propriety, hence the step taken by the Governor who knows the world too well not to be keenly alive to this very plainest of all plain facts.

"Corrosive" has thought proper to give Mr. Tomlin an epithet, and not very enviable, notoriety by rushing with his name into print, wringing his little hands, and bewailing in tones of silent and touching grief the injustice to the Governor in displacing that person he has appointed; and occasionally eulogises the late Superintendent for qualities which may or may not be hidden under the metaphorical bench. With Mr. Tomlin's official or mental abilities I have nothing at all to do, considering that I am profoundly ignorant of both, but with the so-called injustice of his displacement reviewed with so much acrimony and such injudicious taste by your correspondent that one would be inclined to suppose he has met with some disappointment since the advent of the present Governor.

Regarding the removal of Mr. Tomlin the public are aware that his was only a temporary appointment, to be resumed at the pleasure of the Governor, that he suffered no hardship whatever by such a change in his externals, that no stigma attached itself to his character, and that he was offered, and accepted, the well-feathered situation of chief clerk in the Colonial Survey.

Possibly your correspondent who, in your columns, would initiate us into the obscure secrets of precedence, may shake his head and disavow the above vulgarised sentence. He is at perfect liberty to do so. But let him remember that whenever he wields the pen of criticism he should be careful not only of foregone conclusions but of the shame which they invariably entail on him who utters them. It may not have occurred to "Corrosive" that in the inditing of his letter his remarks instead of injuring the Governor of Hongkong, have paid that gentleman the highest possible compliment, and taught your correspondent a lesson which he can soon regard if he is indifferent to his moral and social advancement, and the solid advantages accruing therefrom. I might add, Mr. Editor, that were it not for a slight illness I would have replied to "Corrosive" ere this.

I am, Sir, yours faithfully,

ANODYNE.

"Anodyne" is in error if he imagines that "Corrosive" is labouring under any disappointment. We happen to know that "Corrosive" prides himself on being one of the most independent residents in the Colony.—Ed. C. M.

ALL PLAY AND NO WORK, &c.

To the Editor of the "CHINA MAIL."

Hongkong, Aug. 29, 1877.

SIR,—I am quite alive to the pleasantness of holidays, but I look upon it in a different light when my servants take holidays without finding substitutes.

Now, with regard to Government officers,—as they are called when we make things pleasant, or rather our public servants, as they ought to be called when we look at things as they are in stern reality—I thought all along we had more gentlemen in each office than the exigencies of the public service require, and the fact that each officer has the right to take several months' holiday every year, and that whilst he is away the work in his office goes on just as well as before, proves that our "Government officers" will paid as they are, are not being over-worked. Bon Dieu also made one of the seven days of each week a holiday, and Man has added a half-holiday on Saturday.

This being the state of things, what reason, let alone what right, had our fabled philanthropic Governor to allow each Government Department to shut its doors in the face of the public for an additional whole day out of the 54 left by God and Man? It strikes me it is unscrupulous. Isn't it written somewhere "six days shalt thou work"? As it is now, each Government officer works 44 days, meaning by a day the time from 10 a.m. or later, till about 4 p.m. or earlier, and draws pay for seven, and the public who pay them have to put up with the inconvenience of burying their dead a day later, because they cannot get a burial permit when the Registrar-General's men happen to be on holiday-making, or keeping their money in their hands because the Treasurer's Office is shut.

This is taxing the patience of a tax-paying public rather heavily, especially when we consider that the Governor, in view of the Sanitarium arrangements on the Peak, the high pay, the liberal allowances of several months' holidays each year, and occasional furloughs for a trip to Europe and back, can have had no other reason for making this extra holiday but his own good heart, wishing to pour a little balsam on the sores of chafing officials.—I enclose my card and remain,

Yours,

Mrs. GRUNDY.

NINGPO.

August 22nd.

The only news, here, is of an accident to the yacht Heron, which the lowland succeeded in some incomprehensible way in running on Dumb Island, about 4 miles outside Chinshai. The Heron had been very kindly lent by Colonel Cooke to take a party of ladies and children to Poohoo, whose trip was rather summarily stopped by the misadventure. The yacht was at once beached; and the passengers landed and passed some four or five hours on the rocks before they were taken off in a passing pilot boat. The fishing boats were willing to take them, but were also anxious to squeeze, when the chance arrival of the pilot boat put an end to the difficulty. They all got back to Ningpo about 11 o'clock last night. The Heron, I am glad to hear, is very little injured, and can easily be repaired.

We have had much rain and thunder, but I am glad to say, no sickness.—N. C. D. News.

SHANGHAI.

The Hon. John L. Caldwell, late Assistant Secretary of State at Washington, arrived yesterday (Aug. 28th) by the Sakima Maru, en route, it is understood, for Peking, India, and thence to Europe.

A curious contribution was sent yesterday to the Museum, in the shape of a snake with a number of eggs and a little one just hatched, which were found in an old wall at the back of the Missionary School near West Gate. There were ten eggs, a little smaller than an average fowl's egg, all coherent; the little snake, not much bigger than a good sized worm, had just issued from the outside one of the row.

H.B.M.'s gunboat Eryole was safely docked at Tung-kiao, at an early hour on Tuesday morning. Her guns and several tons of pig iron and other heavy ballast were placed forward so as to lower her bows to bring her on an even keel; and then she was docked without the least difficulty. Her damage now can, of course, be fully viewed, and several residents have inspected her during the last few days. From the appearance of the rent in her side, it would seem that the Dragon struck her almost at right angles; and had she not been so tightly built vessel and provided with watertight compartments, it is tolerably certain that her flotation could not have been sustained many minutes after the collision. The rent on the deck is fully four feet wide, and gradually narrows to two feet, extending down to within six inches of the screw shaft; the port quarter of the vessel, in fact, being literally cut in two. The stem of the Dragon penetrated nearly four feet, and has destroyed not only the wooden framework, but one of the iron supports also. The force of the blow is evidenced by the cleanness of the hole. The planks are not shattered by any extent, but cut through as by an axe used by a powerful hand; and the progress of the Dragon's stem seems only to have been arrested by the strength of the iron hulls. The water which filled the six compartments of the vessel has been pumped out. Everything which contained in the way of ornamentation and personal comforts has been rendered valueless, and the loss in this respect will not be the least item in the list of damages. She is thoroughly overhauled before leaving dock, and many weeks will elapse before her repairs can be executed.—N. C. D. News.

The decision in the Mixed Court, delivered yesterday (Aug. 28th) by the Chinese Magistrate Chen, and C. T. Gardner, Esquire, British Assessor, in the rehearing of the case of Gilman & Co. v. Ting Ping-chai, will be received with general satisfaction. The plaintiffs claimed an "alk" defendant for the loss on certain "alk" account. The alk was sold at a loss, owing to a fall in the market, and the defendant repudiated ownership, asserting that the alk was sold to Gilman & Co., and shipped on their own account. It was argued on the part of the defendant, that it was usual for Chinese consignees to sign the back of the Shen through whom it was shipped; and that in this case the back of Messrs. Gilman & Co. had not been signed by him. It was, however, shown by Gilman & Co. that not only is that formality frequently dispensed with, but defendant himself had on three occasions consigned alk without signing his name, and had on each occasion received the profit. When the case was formerly heard, it had transpired that defendant had considered, besides the sales in dispute, upwards of 100 more, and had signed his name to none of the shipments. The decision which was drawn up by the Chinese Magistrate and assented to by the Assessor, whilst blaming the carelessness of the plaintiffs in not insisting on the signature, said that "there ought to have been no repudiation," and that "it was not competent for the defendant, who had received the profit on the alk consigned, to contend that he is not to pay a loss on alk consigned under exactly similar circumstances." The Court annulled the verdict on the discrepancies between his evidence at various examinations, and on his having palpably tampered with his books. The judgment delivered at the former hearing was upheld, and the defendant ordered to pay Tls. 1,448.48 with interest. The Assessor appended to the decision of Chen, his own view of the case, in which he details minutely the whole of the circumstances, and after thus closely defining the evidence before the Court, agrees with the Magistrate as to the award.

On Thursday evening, Captain Poland, of H. M. S. Sun, engaged a carriage and two muffs, from Messrs. Sowter and Symons, and drove towards Szeoiwei. About eight o'clock, and had arrived at the village near the west gate of Shanghai, a Chinese official—believed to be a military mandarin—and a number of retainers or soldiers, were also on the road at the spot indicated. One of the men seized the pony of the carriage, which was immediately brought to a standstill. The muffs requested to be allowed to proceed, stating that a foreigner was inside the carriage. Instead of releasing his hold, the man and his companions made some contemptuous reply, to the effect that they cared nothing for foreigners; and Captain Poland was detained for some time. No further violence was however, attempted, and that gentleman reached the settlement in safety. We understand that a complaint has been laid before Mr. A. Davenport, Acting British Consul, and that enquiries are being instituted as to the Mandarin who caused the obstruction and detention.—Shanghai Courier.

CELEBRITIES AT HOME.

MR. DARWIN AT DOWN.

A great pool of laughter fills the modest house at Down. Not one of those sharp metallic scintillations which jar on the ear and set the teeth on edge, nor one of those dry wooden rattlings like the crackling of thorns under a pot, nor yet the loud laugh which speaks the vacant mind; but a rich Homeric laugh, round and full, musical and joyous—a laugh to remember. This outburst of merriment proceeds from the recluse of Down, infinitely amused to hear that, while he has been watching the tendrils of the vine and examining the predatory habits of the snail, the microscope of the world has been focussed upon the great observer himself; that, without going through the preliminary process of plucking him to a cork like a cockchafer, he has been a marked man for some time past; that when he has been engaged himself most secure at the pleasant home of his friend Dr. Farr, discussing the light and exhilarating subject of vital statistics, the same penetrating orb was still fixed upon him; that in the little garden where he cultivates his plants for experiment, "observation with extended view" was at his elbow.

"It is better so," says Mr. Darwin, "than to be interviewed and harassed with questions which cannot be answered without some appearance of vanity. Moreover it strikes me as not proper that a man should communicate anything to the author of a biographical notice. He should behave as if already dead." On any subject but himself he is the most free and communicative of living philosophers. Without an atom of scientific jealousy, he is always ready to expound his views, to narrate the result of his delicate experiments on which other investigators occupied, and to assist other investigators from the stores of an experience that has ranged over the whole field of natural science, and the conclusions on such facts as have been ascertained by actual observation. No naturalist of this or any other time has confined himself more strictly to well-ascertained facts, and devoted more labour to original investigation. The reason of this excessive care is to be found in the keys of the Darwinian philosophy—La veritas quædam mæmæ—the pursuit of truth through all difficulties, and without regard to consequences. To this object he has devoted his entire life, saving, of course, the cheerful hours spent in his family-circle—one of the most united and affectionate in England—and with his oldest friend, Sir Joseph Hooker and Professor Huxley. Perhaps no merrier trio of philosophers ever gathered together, and entertained each other with quaint quips and cranks; but neither of his two friends, genial companions though they be, can approach Mr. Darwin's pitch of hilarity. At a droll illustration of Mr. Huxley's, or a humorous doubt instigated in the musical tones of the President of the Royal Society, the eyes twinkle under the massive overhanging brows, the Scroatic head, as Professor Tyndall loves to call it, is thrown back and over the long white beard rolls out such a laugh as we have attempted to describe. Unfortunately there are moments when Mr. Darwin can enjoy neither scientific investigation nor friendly converse; when sudden fits of illness, which he has been subject since his manhood, lay him prostrate for days together. Happily these attacks are only troublesome while they last and inflict no permanent injury on his powerful frame. The long wretched periods of convalescence, too, are utilized for observations, which require almost constant attention; so that the table may be said to be turned on disease.

Mr. Darwin, like his friend Sir Joseph Hooker, is an instance of the hereditary transmission of peculiar characteristics. He is the third of his family in direct descent who have been Fellows of the Royal Society. He is the son of Dr. Robert Darwin, F.R.S., and grandson of Dr. Erasmus Darwin, author of the Botanic Garden, Zoonomia, &c.; and by the mother's side is grandson of Josiah Wedgwood, F.R.S., the celebrated manufacturer of pottery, and founder of the works at Etruria. In him, however, the artistic element which dominated the Wedgwoods has been almost entirely overshadowed by the scientific instinct which impels man to seek for knowledge for its own sake, without the slightest admixture of interest or ambition. For sculpture or pottery or even for drawing, except as an aid to botanical and zoological pursuits, he cares very little, his collection of pictures being confined to a portrait of old Dr. Darwin and one of Josiah Wedgwood hanging in his dining-room, and sketches of Sir Joseph Hooker and Professor Huxley in the small study whence he issued the Origin of Species, the Descent of Man, and a large number of equally valuable but less generally known works on zoology, botany, and geology. It is the fate of Mr. Darwin, like that of many other celebrated men, to be best known by the works to which he would himself hardly assign the highest rank among his many productions. The popular mind, smitten with a taste for a smattering of science, naturally pounces most eagerly upon those scientific works which approach the borderland of speculation, and has thus done him but scant justice; the hurrying and blundering million not pausing to distinguish between those statements which he puts forward as matters of fact, ascertained, beyond all possibility of doubt, by experiment, and the hypotheses which, with admirable caution, he sometimes bases upon them. This is grossly unfair to the most candid of philosophers, who cares nothing for his theories, and as in the well-known case of the bees in the Origin of Species, frankly admitted the difficulty of reconciling the phenomena of Nature with his hypothesis of divergence. Thus it is not uncommon to hear persons of supposed scientific taste, who chatter glibly enough about protoplasm and the monad, compare Mr. Darwin's most popular works with the Vestiges of Creation, a mere scientific romance, founded on the daring speculations of Lamarck, and the famous nebular theory of Laplace, and the famous astronomer, who, when asked by Napoleon why he had not attributed the structure of the universe to one great Architect, is said to have replied that he "had no occasion to adopt that hypothesis."

Mr. Darwin's books are founded upon no hasty generalisations from facts collected by others, but on patient and independent observation. Yet so persistent have been his labours that a mere catalogue of them would fill a column of this journal. Since his return from the memorable voyage of the Beagle, he has been constantly present to the scientific world. It was a happy thought of Captain FitzRoy to offer, on setting out in 1831, to give up part of his own cabin to any naturalist who would accompany the ship on her now historic survey. Mr. Darwin had just then taken his degree at Cambridge, his preliminary studies having been made at Shrewsbury School, under Dr. Butler (afterwards Bishop of Lichfield), and then for two years at the University of Edinburgh, when he devoted some time to marine zoology, and read his first paper before the Edinburgh Society, on the movement of the ova of Fuaria. On the hearing of Captain FitzRoy's offer, he at once volunteered his services without salary, but on condition that he should have the entire disposal of his collections, all of which he deposited in various public institutions.

His work covers an immense area of thought, extending over zoology, botany, and geology, in each of which he has made the mark of an original and powerful mind, enriched by long research. The bulk of work of this kind conveyed but the dimmest idea of the toil involved in the collection of material, and spent in experiment and observation. In actual writing, Mr. Darwin works on a plan of his own, in very short spells—never exceeding a couple of hours—and never commenced until the evidence has been carefully collected, arranged, and duly pondered over.

In one respect, despite his voracious attacks of illness, Mr. Darwin must be considered a fortunate man. During the whole of his life he has been in easy circumstances, above the toil of earning an income. Unlike many philosophers, he has not had the mortification of spending his best hours in the drudgery of official routine, or the hardly less wearisome task of teaching. He has been enabled to devote his entire time to his favourite pursuits, and since his marriage with his cousin, Miss Emma Wedgwood, has resided at Down, amid the rich and varied scenery of one of the prettiest parts of Kent. As his numerous family has grown up around him, he has been relieved of all the cares which distract the scientific worker in the heat and turmoil of active life. He leads a truly calm and philosophic existence, untroubled by the contemplation of weekly bills and by the signing of cheques. In his wife and family he is especially happy, being spared the pain of degenerate offspring. His eldest son, Mr. William Darwin, is a banker at Southampton; the second, George, took high honours at Cambridge, and is now a Fellow of Trinity; the third, Frank, who has inherited his father's ill-health, acts as his secretary; the fourth, Leonard, is an officer in the Artillery, and distinguished himself as one of the scientific corps sent to observe the transit of Venus; the fifth, Horace, is an excellent mathematician. One married and one unmarried daughter complete a family whose constant care is to relieve its head of all possible trouble or anxiety.

Thus, free from the disturbing influences of the world, he can well afford to treat with admirable good-humour the attacks of scientific opponents, and the jokes of ignorant folk incapable of understanding either his books or himself. When young he pursued field-sports with the combined interest of the hunter and the naturalist; but of late years he has found his chief relaxation in reading the popular novels of the day, feeling, like Auguste Comte, that the scientific work requires frequent unbinding. In his treatment of books and specimens, he resembles Mr. Carlyle—caring nothing for them when read or thoroughly investigated. His books and plants are always at the service of his friends and neighbours, among whom one of the nearest is Sir John Lubbock. Finally, let it be remembered that Mr. Darwin has exercised no common degree of moral influence on the scientific world. Completely possessed with the idea of absolute truth at all hazards, he abhors tampering with or shaping facts to suit preconceived theories. It is, perhaps, hardly too much to say that no man has exercised a more powerful influence on the study of natural history since Aristotle himself.

THE Company will be constituted on the 1st January, 1878, as a permanent Marine Insurance Company, to carry on the business (established in 1863) of the NORTH CHINA INSURANCE COMPANY, 1875-1877.

A Reserve Fund will be formed of Tael 400,000, by setting aside a portion of the profits at such times and in such sums as the Shareholders shall decide.

The net profits of the Company for each year will be divided amongst the Shareholders in the following manner:—One-third over the Shares, a portion thereof being set aside for the formation of a Reserve Fund as above stated. Two-thirds as a return to Contributors (being Shareholders), in proportion to the Premium paid or influenced by them.

A revision of the Share List will take place at the end of every three years, and for this purpose power will be given to the Directors by the Deed of Settlement to withdraw at the before-mentioned periods all or any of the Shares held by Shareholders who have not contributed Premium or whose contributions during the preceding three years have not been in proportion to the number of Shares held.

Shareholders retiring from the Company in pursuance of the above regulation, will be notified at least three months prior to the date fixed for any such revision of the Share List, and will have the option of disposing of their Shares in either of the following ways:—

They will be at liberty at any time after receipt of notice of withdrawal, and prior to the date of revision, to sell their Shares to any person approved by the Company and accepted as the transferee; or

Upon surrendering their scrip certificate for cancellation at the time of such revision, and pursuant to notice, will receive a return of the Capital paid up thereon; and so soon after as the financial position of the Company up to the date of the revision can be ascertained and the accounts adjusted, they shall also receive a pro-rata share of the Reserve Fund, if any accumulated, together with such proportion of the unappropriated profits as may be found due to them.

NOTICE is HEREBY GIVEN, that Applications for Shares in the undermentioned form will be received at the offices of the Company, from residents in China and Japan, until the 30th September; from London and distant ports until 31st October next.

FORM OF APPLICATION FOR SHARES.

To the Provisional Committee of the NORTH-CHINA INSURANCE COMPANY, Gentlemen,

..... hereby request that you will allot to Shares in the above Company, and agree to accept such Shares, or any less number you may allot to and agree to pay the first call of Tls. 600 per Share, and all subsequent calls, and to subscribe the Deed of Settlement when required to do so.

Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,

Forms of application for Shares can be obtained at the Head-office, or by application to the Agents of the Company.
